

Georgia Southern University's Department of Communication Arts invites applications for Assistant Professor of Communication in Public Relations. A residential university serving nearly 20,000 students in fall 2010, Georgia Southern is recognized for providing all of the benefits of a major university with the feeling of a much smaller college. The nearly 700-acre, park-like campus is located in Statesboro, a classic Main Street community near historic Savannah. Within this setting, the Department of Communication Arts provides a forum in which students, as part of the largest department in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, develop career skills such as self confidence in oral and written presentations, excellent communication skills, critical analysis, and problem solving. Our students represent a broad spectrum of majors, interests and career possibilities in Communication Studies, Journalism, Multimedia Communication, Public Relations, and Theatre. The successful candidate will teach required courses in the public relations curriculum (Intro, Writing, Research and/or Campaigns), advise public relations majors, assist student organizations and maintain an active research agenda. The full text advertisement, including information about the department, faculty, and the complete position announcement with all qualifications and application instructions, is available at <http://www.georgiasouthern.edu> or <http://www.classgeorgiasouthern.edu/commarts/>. Screening of applications begins November 7, 2011, and continues until the position is filled. Georgia is an open records state. Georgia Southern is an AA/EO institution. Individuals who need reasonable accommodations under the ADA to participate in the search process should contact the Associate Provost.
