

Two Full-Time, Non-Tenure-Track Lecturer Positions at Clemson University

Bryan Denham, bdenham@clemson.edu

The Department of Communication at Clemson University invites applications for TWO full-time, non-tenure-track Lecturer positions. Those appointed will begin August 15, 2022 and teach introduction to human communication and/or public speaking. The department serves the university and general education through these introductory courses, with more than 3,500 students completing one of the two each year.

Lecturer appointments are for one year with the possibility of renewal depending on quality of instruction and availability of funding. Lecturers have department voting rights and the ability to be promoted over time, given excellent and sustained performance in assigned areas. Applicants must have a Master's degree in Communication or a minimum of 18 hours of graduate coursework in Communication by the time of appointment.

The Department is housed in the College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences and offers three academic degree programs:

- A BA in Communication
- A BA in Sports Communication
- An MA in Communication

It also offers minors in Communication and Sports Communication. The department is also home to several facilities and co-curricular activities including WSBF 88.1 FM, The Tiger newspaper, Tigervision TV network, Social Media Listening Center, Communication Center and Research Hub, a nationally and internationally recognized debate team, and student study abroad programs. Approximately 40 faculty (13 tenured/tenure-track, 17 full-time non-tenure-track, and several adjunct faculty), 300 undergraduate majors, 300 undergraduate minors, 25 graduate students (nearly all on funded assistantships), and five staff members study and work across the department's programs and engage through its facilities and co-curricular initiatives.

The Department of Communication is committed to educating and producing leaders who can navigate the challenges of an ever-changing global community. The department espouses an environment of collegiality and collaboration and aims to achieve goals for inclusive excellence set forth by the ClemsonForward strategic plan. We are dedicated to promoting, advocating, and progressing diversity through teaching, scholarship, and service on campus and in the community. Communication faculty and students participate in such activities as study abroad experiences, prosocial service-learning projects, and examinations of public discourse surrounding social issues through the department's Social Media Listening Center. More information about our department may be found at:

www.clemson.edu/communication

Clemson University is the land-grant institution for the state of South Carolina. The university has significantly increased its investments in graduate education and research and is classified as a Carnegie Research 1 University and is ranked in the top 30 of the U.S. News and World Report listing of top Public National Research Universities. More information may be found at:

www.clemson.edu

Our main campus is located in the Upstate region, an area characterized by a relatively low cost of living, great natural beauty, and access to nearby cities such as Greenville, Atlanta, Asheville, Charlotte, and Columbia. More information may be found at:

www.clemsonareachamber.org

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Master's degree in Communication or a minimum of 18 hours of graduate coursework in Communication by the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should electronically submit all application materials via Interfolio:

<http://apply.interfolio.com/106999>

Required materials include:

1. A cover letter detailing the applicant's qualifications for the position
2. A current vita
3. Evidence of teaching effectiveness
4. Statement detailing how the applicant's teaching and service experiences contribute to a culture of diversity and inclusion
5. Contact information for three references

Send email inquiries to Bryan Denham, Professor & Interim Chair, Department of Communication, Clemson University, bdenham@clemson.edu.

The guaranteed consideration date for receiving applications is June 1, 2022. Applications received by this date will be given full consideration. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Salary is competitive and negotiable, based on experience.

Job Application URL:

<http://apply.interfolio.com/106999>

This institution does not offer benefits to domestic partners.

This institution offers benefits to spouses.